

Look at the chart below. See the last horizontal line in the portfolio? That is where the VectorVest DEW timing system took customers to CASH on 2/24/20, three days after the market high.

This signal saved them from a 9,368-point drop in the Dow! Do you see a similar drop in the portfolio for that time frame? No, it's not there. Because they were in CASH.

Breakthrough Market Guidance Protects Investors from 9,368 Pt. Dow Plunge!

...And signaled aggressive investors to begin stepping back in just two days after the market bottom!

The VectorVest Market Timing System and the DEW Timing Signal contain the KEY TO A SAFE RETIREMENT for you and your family.

Only VectorVest provides this critical combination of services—a Market Timing System with a 30-year track record followed by expert guidance every evening in the market guidance video that prepares you for market plunges like the Coronavirus Sell-off.

You can attain a new level of SAFETY AND SECURITY IN RETIREMENT knowing your nest egg is protected from wild swings in the market.

Our proprietary Market Timing Indicators work together to give clear signals—critical guidance that provide clear direction for the market. This is coupled with expert daily guidance that takes you step-by-step through what the signals are telling us and how you can best be prepared.

Here's how it works.

As early as January 17, 2020 VectorVest was already warning the Market Timing Indicators were signaling an overbought market. The mantra "keep an eye on the MTI," is often your first indication of a market top.

On February 14, 2020, VectorVest published "while our Market Timing Indicators closed higher weekover-week, they are at lower levels today than they were during the January high, this bearish divergence suggests that downside risk outweighs upside potential."

The Enhanced Color Guard Video that evening reported the canary in the coal mine is gasping for breath here and bearish divergences are abounding—the uptrend is running out of gas.

On February 21, 2020, VectorVest went on to say, "Prudent Investors should not buy stocks at this time. Aggressive Investors and Traders should play the market with a bias to the downside."

The Enhanced Color Guard Video that evening continued the story with... we are seeing a breakdown of the MTI...sound the alarm. Now is the time to tighten stops and protect profits. The Primary Wave is down, an important signal is being generated here.

On February 24, 2020, VectorVest relayed "We do not advocate buying any stocks at this time. The underlying trend of the market is now down. All three of our market timing indicators are now below the level of 1.00 showing weakness in the market."

The market video that evening went on to say "The DEW "Goldilocks" timing system signaled market down today. Each of our hot stocks today were Contra ETFs and were up an average of 11%. Looking at today's Derby Winners...each with 10 stock portfolios, four of the five searches with the highest 1-Day percent price gains were Bearish."

These signals alone could have saved you thousands in your portfolio. And, that's just one market turn!

When the market rebounds, VectorVest gets you back in.

The market bottomed on March 23, 2020. Two days later, on March 25, 2020, VectorVest published "The primary trend of the market is Up. Prudent Investors may buy stocks long only if the market is rising." The market video reported "There are some hefty gains in our 5-Day Derby Winners, with Bottoms Up gaining 88.79% over the last 5 days. A lot of us are anxious to get back into trading. For those who are very aggressive, they may start stepping in, buying good quality stocks at a good price. For those less aggressive, wait for our first Green Light."

On March 26, 2020, VectorVest investors got that Green Light with "Prudent Investors may buy stocks long if the market is rising. Aggressive Investors and Traders should play the market with a bias to the upside."

On April 6, 2020, the bullish message continued with "the five searches with the highest 1-Day percent price gains are all bullish", averaging an 18% gain. The market video that evening followed with "The DEW is our "Goldilocks" timing model, just right for many. We got an up call on today's data. We had been outside of normal pricing behavior and we normally see a rapid snap back from these extreme levels. It's time to start buying stocks should the market continue higher tomorrow."

What's in it for you.

Every trading day, VectorVest provides all the guidance you need to make better investment decisions. Take John from Marco Island, Florida, a loyal VectorVest customer for 25 years. He owned a successful small business. It took a lot of time from his family. Holding onto his profits in the rally into 2007 was very important to him. He heeded VectorVest's warning, very similar to the one outlined above, and went to cash. It saved him from the bloodbath that followed.

Still concerned after the sell-off in 2007-2008, he was gun-shy as VectorVest signaled a market bottom in March of 2009. He did some bottom-fishing with about half of his portfolio, buying only the safest stocks. He did very well, shoring up a comfortable retirement.

Listen to John's story.

What's holding you back?
